AVISO

JUNE 1981

Heritage Alumnae Gather—page 5

I like colleges that nestle
In quiet little towns,
And seem to offer something more
Than credits, caps and gowns.

I like classes filled with friends
Who have a smile for me,
I don't like profs who know me as
Row 3i, seat 3.

I hate to meet a former prof's
Unrecognizing stare;
I like the kind who know your name,
Your hopes, your love affair.

I like church-college profs who teach
Like wise, inspired crusaders;
Who take the time to read your themes
And don't hire student graders.

I like colleges, which strive to learn
Years later where you are;
Yes, even tho' you've never been,
A campus queen or star.

A mammoth institution holds
Within it's office space
Along with proof of my degree,
A photo of my face.

The most it knows about me is
My city, birth and class.
I like my old church college best;
She doesn't think en masse.

She'll gaily cheer each grad's career
With faith that's optimistic;
To her a former student is
No musty old statistic.

The friends I made at old C.C.
Passed not like ships at night;
They send me lengthy letters still
Tho' I forget to write.

I like colleges that nestle
In quiet little towns
And offer students something more
Than credits, caps, and gowns.

1981-82 Budget Approved

At the April trustee meeting approval of the 1981-82 budget included a $300,000 allotment for the remodeling of the current gymnasium into additional cafeteria facilities. An increase in student costs by an average of 10.2% comprised another portion of the new budget. The breakdown is 12% or $6 per credit hour increase in tuition, a 5.9% or $20 board increase per quarter, and a 10.5% or $27 increase in room expenses.

Other proposals approved by the trustees included the addition of eight new faculty members, two each in the speech, education, and business departments, and one each in the science and English departments.

Authorization was also provided for the renewal of Pioneer Food Service's contract through the year 1981-82.

Alumnae Coaches Successful

Much has been done in recent years in sounding the impacting voice of women in organized athletics. Their contributions have been often overlooked in a field which has been historically dominated by the male competitor.

When the progress of women's athletics is mentioned at Cedarville College, the name of Dr. Maryalce Jeremiah ('65) undoubtedly surfaces. Her influence as a coach at Cedarville has never been forgotten. Because of her strong convictions concerning the women's role in athletics, others have successfully followed her trail into athletic vocations. Maryalce is living proof of solid commitment toward the betterment of female athletics. She presently holds the post as head women's basketball coach at the University of Indiana. "Dr. J." maintains a consistent Christian testimony which has influenced hundreds of female athletes, including numerous Cedarville alumnae.

Cedarville College alumnae have not gone unnoticed in their quest to contribute in this rising field. Their coaching, medical, and administrative efforts have pervaded numerous colleges across the nation.

Coaching has become an avenue whereby women can use a vast number of abilities and talents. Miss Diana Jones ('76), often referred to as "DJ," has demonstrated her versatility this past year at Taylor University where she coached women's field hockey, basketball, and softball in her first year of active experience. She led her field hockey team to a third place seed in the Indiana state tourney. Diana, who recently obtained her master of arts degree in physical education, has attributed much of her early success to Dr. Jeremiah. "She taught me that teaching is a part of coaching. Some coaches lose sight of this."

It sometimes becomes extremely difficult to leave a place of dominant spiritual influence and then work under secular standards. Mrs. Sandy (Finch '75) Martin has gained a great deal of this insight at Kenyon College where she is presently the Assistant Director of Athletics and Physical Education. She has gained much respect, however, in her own portrayal of a positive Christian life. "It's difficult to see your impact in a basically humanistic environment. Sandy feels that her greatest acclaim to her profession is simply the fact that she is directly involved in athletics. She remarked, "Ten years ago most coaches were male." Sandy received her master's degree in physical education at the University of Dayton.

Miss Kim Gull ('78) has felt the pressures of a first-year coach at Geneva College. "I feel my greatest accomplishment has been to land a job so quickly. It gives you a lot of confidence." Kim presently coaches women's tennis and is an assistant coach for women's basketball. She has seen her first year as one of planting seed spiritually. As a new coach, the feedback response is minimal. Her goals are soundly rooted in developing a quality program at Geneva. Much of this desire was instilled by coaches while at Cedarville. "They taught me that discipline, conditioning, and intensity are what builds an athletic program."

Much has been gained in areas of preventive medicine and athletic conditioning because of athletic trainers. Miss Connie Pumpelly ('73) is certified by the National Athletic Trainers Association and is currently a trainer at the University of Indiana. "I became interested in this aspect of sports because Cedarville didn't have a trainer while I was an athlete there. Also, a care and conditioning class aroused my interest." Connie works with all women's sports in practice sessions as well as rehabilitation of injured athletes. She also helps with the IU football program.

Dr. Jeremiah and Dr. June Kearney, as collegiate coaches, were professional influences on Connie's career. "They taught me that you have to be determined if you want something. You

WOMEN ALUMNAE BASKETBALL

The alumnae women basketball veterans put their finesse and prowess into action against the Lady Jackets to soundly defeat them 81-57. Coach Karen DeMars ('73) used the entire returning squad in the victory. Top scorers for alumnae were Marianne Frauenknecht with 18 points and Vicki Butler with 17 points.

Cedar Day Queens' Reunion

"Other colleges have their Flag Day and their May Day, but Cedarville College has her Cedar Day. It is an institution peculiar to Cedarville College" (Cedrus 1916). Cedar Day is a day set aside in the spring of the year when the student body is host to the entire community. This year's activities included a morning road run, a picnic lunch by Cedar Lake, and special music by the Cedarville High School Band during the cedar tree planting ceremony and crowning of the Alpha Chi Sweetheart. Other events included a "legal" water fight among students and a fight against the village fire department for any group brave enough to face their hose. Horseshoe pitching, canoe races, and a myriad of other activities provided fun for the community and the college family.

The Alumni Association hosted a few special events of its own. Nearly a dozen former Rescue Squad members plus their wives were treated to a cookout, slide show, and viewing of the new Rescue Squad Ambulance—all planned by the present squad members.

The feature event for alumni on Cedar Day was the Heritage Alumni Salad Smorgasbord. After the tasty meal, the program began with a welcome by Gary Kuhn, Director of Alumni Relations. He quoted from the 1911 Gavelyte and used a slide presentation to pictorially display the Cedar Day Queens and Orators for each respective year. Ten former Cedar Day Queens made up nearly one-fourth of the 45 persons present. Each queen shared personal experiences of the day she reigned as Cedar Queen. A variety of tales were mentioned including the story of how the Hartman's milk cow ended up in the belfry of "Old Main." The oldest alumnus present was Mrs. Bertha (Stormont '11) Ferguson.

Several presentations were made that evening to the Alumni Association: Lucinda (Caskey '24) Whiteside presented a copy of the May 28, 1928, Cedar Needles; and Charles ('33) and Doris (Swaby '33) Spencer presented a 1930 Cedrus.

Richard ('34N) and Rachel (Douthett '32) Kitchen are seated with Lenore (Skinnell '32) MacMillan.

Paul Tanner ('30) presented his 1930 4-year letter sweater to President Dixon.

Alumni Scholarship Awards

The Alumni Association granted on Honors Day three scholarships from its Scholarship and Grant Endowment Fund. The recipients are junior Delana Phillips, who received the 2nd Annual Jack Willetts Education Award; sophomore Stephen Clark, who received the 1st Annual Biblical Studies Award; and sophomore Terri Schmidt, who received the 1st Annual Language and Literature Award. They each received a beautiful plaque of recognition and $500 for the 1981-82 school year.

Loren Small—Sears Catalog Sales Merchant

"I am especially impressed as I visit the campus to see the business department keeping pace as it trains young people for future careers." So says Loren Small, one of our 1973 graduates in Business Administration. "I wish I had been a student ten years later than I was!"—this, from a successful businessman, present owner of a Sears catalog business in Montrose, Pennsylvania.

Loren began working at a catalog store way back in high school and continued in that direction during his years at Cedarville. After college graduation he became a sales office manager for Sears. For five years he also worked as secretary and treasurer for Hinds Oil Company and for a local municipality. In 1978 he bought his present business.

Loren married Linda Hinds, a Cedarville alumna, upon her graduation in June, 1976. Linda's major had been music education, and for three years she taught music at the Hallstead Christian Academy in Pennsylvania. Both husband and wife play instruments and during their college years participated in various musical groups. Currently Linda serves as organist at Springville Baptist Church, Springville, Pennsylvania, where Loren is a trustee and financial secretary. Their one daughter, Kristen Joy, will be two years old in August.

Appreciative of his business training at Cedarville, Loren remarks, "I am thankful not only for the training, but also for the positive Christian attitudes and thinking that are vital as one faces the business world today."

have to at least try." In consideration of that advice, she plans someday to move into a position of heading up an athletic training program.

Many collegiate athletes dream of returning to their alma mater in a professional way. Mrs. Sandy (Holwerda '75) Schlappi experienced that dream after the resignation of Dr. Jeremiah. She realized the immediate difficulty in filling the vacant coaching position; yet she felt prepared because of the teaching and coaching training she had received from "Dr. J." Sandy, currently working on a master's degree at the University of Dayton, feels that her greatest accomplishment thus far is teaching and coaching on the college level.

The battle of just getting recognition as quality personnel is slowly being won by women in the field of athletics. Coach Schlappi feels that this recognition has been an important factor in women's athletic success. "Girls are getting better opportunities now than those of the past. Skill levels are also becoming stronger." This progress has come because of quality coaches and other athletic specialists. Cedarville alumnae have shown their worth in this field and have reinforced the strength and quality of the Cedarville College physical education department.

Senior and student body president Valde Garcia received the George C. Marshall Award "in recognition of attainment as the outstanding student in military studies and leadership" in the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps at Central State University. In June he and senior Brian Cafferty will be commissioned 2nd Lieutenants in the United States Army.

The 2nd annual Festival of Music, featuring compositions written entirely by students, was again a success. The 15-song program selected from 59 entries is available on tape through Christian Educational Publications.

At the 1981 Honors Day Chapel, the student body presented the Outstanding Faculty Member of the Year Award to Dr. David Matson ('60), Chairman of the Music Department, and the Outstanding Staff Member of the Year Award to Rev. Harold Green, Director of Christian Service.
